ABOUT THIS BOOK

Most people think life is about answers, when really it is about questions. The greatest minds in history were obsessed with questions.

Leonardo Da Vinci kept thousands of pages filled with questions. Albert Einstein said “the most important thing is to never stop questioning.” If you want to change the world or change your life, you must first change your questions.

All the times in my life I have been most dissatisfied share one commonality; I asked shitty questions.

My victim mindset lead to poor questions such as “Why does this always happen to me?” or “how come they are successful?” or “How come I’ve never gotten lucky?” lead me into a downward spiral of negativity.

It wasn't until I realized the quality of my life depends on the quality of my questions, that my life started to turn around. When I asked the wrong question, I'd get a poor answer. When I asked the right question, I got a better answer.

But it was when I asked the most powerful question possible that the answers were life-changing.

“Judge a man by his questions rather than his answers.”
